“ Baby, i miss you more than anyone can ever imagine. I loved you then i love you more i will love you forever. This emptiness it hurts, this pain is intense. I can't see how everyone thinks this will get easier and i must move on. I guess no-one knows how different i am, other than you my love. We had so much more to do, baby i promise to give my all to be able to be with you in paradise.

“ Here i am again, just wishing i could hold you and you could hold me. Listening to your songs, hearing you doing then to me, it's driving me crazy baby. I keep trying to tell myself you are no longer hurting or dealing with this corrupt system of things, but that doesn't make me feel any different. I still want you here with me. I am so praying that i can fully dedicate myself to Jehova, because this is the road to seeing you again and having you by my side. Don't worry i will always hear you, see you, remember you, and every single thing we shared. You can look totally different in paradise and i will still know it's you. Love you more.

“ Honey how i wish I could have you here by my side. I know that's selfish, but so I guess I'm selfish. I miss you so much, I'm trying to see forward to breathe, to sleep and nothing seems to work. You know you are my sound board, i could tell you everything, you listened and you either agreed or made me reason. Baby i have no one to do this with now. I am going to continue the kingdom hall, because I want so bad to see u again. I am so incomplete. I cannot believe it's been 2 months, the pain is as fresh as day 1. I love you baby, and i know you love me to the moon and back, but I love you more.

“ Baby it's only been a little over a month i don't know how to move forward. I miss you more than I thought could be possible. Everything i see, touch, hear is us baby. Our kids are lost, you kept us together, i don't know how to. Jun is broken, Moses doesn't have a clue who he is and Amber is searching for happiness. The babies are so confused baby they miss you. I knew when we married that you were my one and only lifelong true love. We had so much more to share, i don't know how to move on, i don't know if I want to. ❤️
