“ Grandpa jack. I know you may be gone but i know that you are still here looking out for me and my family. I will never forget the times we had and spent together and how you always tried to teach me and guide me in the right direction. I will never forget the easter i spent with you and had went to church and after that going back to your house and playing in the back yard with the big ball you had gotten me. I also know that your always going to be just a ear shout away when i wanna talk and that you will always continue to try and guide me in the right direction. So with that being said grandpa jack this is not goodbye this is simply a untill we meet again. I love you, i miss you, and i will see you again, so until then i will be holding this dollar for you big man.....

“ “Uncle Jack” I selfishly wish that you were still with us. However, I’m pleased to know that you are no longer in discomfort or being tormented in anyway. As a child I knew you as the kind and fun-loving Uncle, with a warm smile and a jovial laugh. A great dancer and awesome cook, who introduced me to my first plate of “chitterlings”. As an adolescent and adult I remember you most for the loving direction and encouragement you afforded me. Those who were known by you, were fortunate. Those who were loved by you, were blessed. Rest easy Uncle Jack, your resurrection day is close at hand. What a “Fantastic Day” that will be!

Much Love,
Your Niece

“ This is an important passing. Mr. Petite was an important person to me. He was a man's man. A Black Man who knew who he was. Sharp dressed man. He walked with a global glide through life. He was benchmark for a great generation of men He was a Deacon of Deacons He was a proponent of not sweating the small stuff. He was a man for all times He was a man service who lived to serve He often would drop Jem's on a struggling young brother...He told me that I control the situation do not let the situation control me. I will never forget him...RIP Mr. Petite
