“ I write this tribute with unimaginable sadness as Kim was like a sister to me. This beautiful woman, inside and out, was there for me and my family through her loving, kind, and gentle nature. With Kim at my side, everything was just - better. Her infectious smile certainly caused mine to grow a bit wider, her positive attitude always lifted me up, and that laugh...she was just so silly.

Our messages would make sense to no one else; our conversations just crazy to anyone passing by. She made me laugh countless times, tripping over her own feet, but always making a near perfect landing. So many incredible memories that I will forever cherish; our daily walks, the beach, Mickey's house, our lunch workouts, and our indulgence for happy hour wine.

But what I will miss most is the special bond between Jayda and her Auntie Kim. Jayda's biggest fan who always made sure her Princess was happy. One of my favorite memories is of the two of them putting on lipstick - Auntie Kim let her wear the bright red kind and boy did that make Jayda feel like a million bucks. That was Auntie Kim's specialty - loving her so entirely. The love between those two was simply, unconditional.

Remembering Kim will be easy, I do it everyday, but missing her is heartache that will never go away. I will miss her presence. I will miss my best friend.

Psalm 91:11 "For he shall give his angels charge over you, to keep you in all your ways."

I love you Kim.

Love,
Chrissey, Rick & Princess Jayda

“ What would have have felt about Kim Jesser if you found out she was sleeping with Rick?? Or better question.... would you befriend and praise the person that slept with Rick in your bed?? Well, Kim did that to me. Even though she didn't do it to you, it doesn't discount the pain she inflicted on me. Think about that. Is this the role model you want for Jayda?? If so, I feel sorry for that pitiful little girl.

“ I worked with Kim for nearly five years when she started at Universal on the Travel Industry Sales team. We became friends quickly as I appreciated how Kim could make everyone smile. Kim developed friendships with everyone she met as she was engaging and genuinely cared. After I left Universal, Kim always made an effort to reach-out to me at industry events and when we saw each other around town. We could pick-up a conversation we had months before without missing a beat.

I am so sorry for your loss. Please accept my deepest condolences. This hit me very hard as I was unaware that Kim was sick. I last saw her in October when I was out with my kids shopping. I wish I could have told her how much I appreciated her smile, warmth and friendship.

May God bless your family and give you strength. Kim will be missed dearly. I am so thankful our paths crossed as I have so many fond memories to reflect upon.
