“ There are so many great memories with Justin. To start..I had the pleasure of Jay blowing out the candles on my 4th or 5th Birthday cake... I always brought it up to him over the years, to tease him and remind him that I'll never forget it... Probably because it was one of my first memories with Justin and Im thankful to have this memory, and so glad he felt comfortable enough to blow out the candles on MY birthday cake lol.

Then when I was 13 and he was probably about 17 years old, our family all met in Alabama for Thanksgiving. All of us cousins got to have a huge sleepover the whole trip and we goofed around ENDLESSLY. There was one specific time on that trip when we were all playing hide & seek in the dark... I decided to announce “I’m a spider monkey!” While kicking my leg up in the air to then swing it over his head... welp I actually missed and ended up skimming his nose with my Big Toe nail. I was so embarrassed, but still we hysterically laughed together! And that memory is the one that he would not let me forget...

Over the years we always had these little moments of connecting just him and I. Talking and catching up and reminiscing on childhood memories... of course we ALWAYS revisited the two memories I mentioned above. Thank you Jay, for always sharing a laugh with me, and creating great memories as we grew up.

“ We did not have the opportunity to know Justin very well. I do recall the first time we met that i thought was a respectful young man he was. His smile was joyful and disarming. You could not help but like him immediately.

“ Oh the memories I have with Justin. He was like a mischievous little brother to me growing up.

I remember Aunt Beth buying Sushi one time and him convincing me to eat a pea of wasabi (HOLY HOT ☐) I never did that again.

Another time when we were kiddos we were all having a sleep over watching some movie and “A.J” let out the stinkiest toot and put the blanket over my head. I threw my stuffed animal at his face and it hit him in the eye ball. He pretended to cry and Aunt Beth came in and yelled at me for hitting him. As soon as she left the room he gave this shit eating grin and started laughing at me.

I remember playing Donkey Kong, all the Sega Genesis games. Playing outside for hours hunting frogs and bugs. The memories go on and on.

As we grew up I would see Justin at Cowboys, weddings and baby showers and he always gave the biggest hugs. He’s such an amazing person with the best smile and contagious laugh. I’ll always cherish our memories and he will be forever missed and loved, so so very much.

“ What a handsome man A.J grew up to be. I met him as a toddler and quickly adored him. His smile and spirit were most contagious. I can still remember playing with him and running after tennis balls, he had so much energy. I also remember him at my wedding and dancing with his mama. He sure adored her and she him. I am sorry for his pain and am so grateful I shared a small part of this angel's life. He is now resting in the arms of our Lord and Savior. I pray for peace and understanding for all of AJ's family and friends.
