“ my mom tells me to stop thinking of you and tells me to stop looking at your pictures but i cant . i just miss you alot baby girl . and i shouldve told you that i love you when you were here .
my mom tells me to let you rest , to let u sleep and i hope i am . im just going through some things and im writing you this because i know that if you were here i would probably prank call you again ,and deny that it was me .
id probably snap chat you and ask you what to do , id probably text you and say something sweet because i would always do that .
im sorry for hurting you , i only have really one picture that you sent me from snapchat and i cant wait till i get a printer to print it out . because like they say you never know what you have till its gone and that is something i wish to take back .
regrets are just mistakes that we as humans cant take bacck time for .
if i could take back times , if i could go back and change things i would .
i would look at you every second and tell you that you look beautiful every second of the day because as much as i never said that i thought that .
you had an amazing talent and gosh i dont even know .
look i really need your help , do u think u can have one angel friend of yours come down and help for a bit ? that would really be nice and i would appreciate it .
i love you my little angel . we all truly miss you , damn i wish i could call you and just talk otp with you all the time .

It saddens me dearly that such an innocent young lady has left this world before she has even had a chance to grow and have all the things as a parent expects for their children to do in life... but as I read through all the memories your friends and family has wrote I can clearly see you touched a lot of lifes with love.. our family has prayed for you and yours during this difficult time so he may hold your hand and theirs and help you all find peace... ❤️ -Jennifer Douglas & Mia Rotger

“ I may not know Alahna, but however, I can imagine her being a wonderful memory to those who loved her very dearly. I wish I get to knew her though, and give her warm hugs and all, sadly at the time of her death I went to a different school and I never got to chance to know her. I hope to one day I can go to her tombstone and give her some flowers just because. May Alahna remain alive in the memory of those who knew her, and may her name alone live on.

“ Sandy, my dear loving friend.

You and your family are in the hearts and prayers of so many people. Nothing will remove the hurt, but pray is a connection we all have with each other. Alahna always reached out to everyone she knew. Alahna's loving spirit and her beautiful life is a reflection of you. So many lives are entwined because Alahna is in our lives and hearts. Alahna warmed every heart she touched. Her presence always brought sunshine to the day! I remember her ALWAYS speaking to me when you and I were depositing the money at the bank. Alahna wanted everyone to know they were important in her life.

God's majestic love and comfort will be with you and your family as you all walk through this most difficult time. I love you Sandy. Donna Thomas “ Alahna, was a fun, free person who didn't care what people thought of her. She was smart, beautiful, courageous gal, who had alot of friends. I remember when she did the annie show (witch was spectacular) that she sang a wonderful song called "Tomarrow". And all that i'm saying right now is why, why does it have to be Alahna. Love you Alahna, and always will.

“ Dear Sandy, My heart is hurting for you right now as I speak these words to you. We ask why did this happen and no words can tell us. I pray God's peace and comfort on you and your family It is a time of mourning for all of us and as Ecclesiastes 3 says there is a time for everything and we do weep at this time with you in your great loss. Alahna was a very special and unique young girl. I always enjoyed seeing her come into my office at Shingle Creek with a smile and her bubbly personality and cute remarks on just about anything. She always made me smile because of her sweetness and she will be sorely missed. I will always remember Alahna. May God bless.

Your mom and Aunt brandi needed to go to the store and asked if i would watch you. I was nervous and excited all at the same time. I held you in my arms until they came back from the store. From that day on you was apart of my life and i came by spent time with you and watched you so much. I enjoyed all the laughs we shared, smiles, games we played and the times at the beach walking the beach up and down. I miss you so much and love you. You will be forever in my heart and on my mind. And I Thank God for all the Friends and Family who are helping me and my family through our loss. I will miss you the most Alahna!! I still feel like you are here with us, but I just can't tough you and I do want to hold you. I pray the all who know you will use this experience to reach out to each other and stand up and be there for each other so something like this does not happen again. Our children are crying out and I hope that we hear them and can help through any problems they have. Parents need to be teachers too, to show their children to be kind and helpful to one another instead of being cruel and hurting one another. I hope everyone will open their eyes and stop the hatred that exist in our schools and homes.*

Lover of music, always wanting to make people smile, rocking awesome hair.... You were only a week younger than my son Robbie and I always joked with your Aunt Brandi that you and Robbie were gonna get married one day so we can united our families together! I wish we could of spent more time together. I wish you could of spent more time with Robbie. Even he is saddened by this and wishes he could of been there for you too. I know emotionally you were going through a LOT. Being a 14 year old girl now a days is very hard. Always trying to make others happy and smile while you were fighting the sadness within you. Just know that you were loved by SO many people!! You were a beautiful, talented girl who had so much more to give to this world!! We are truly going to miss you and miss the time we could of spent with you!! Fly with the angels beautiful girl. We ALL love you!!*

“ I don't even know where to begin... Alahna is a beautiful ray of sunshine who I am so blessed to have known. It's funny... All of the students who didn't really know us would think we were related, usually asking if she was my daughter. We'd laugh and joke about it, with the typical, snarky "Why is it because I'm white?" joke. But, in time, it just kind of happened that Alahna, while not my daughter, ended up being pretty much just that. So many of the students called her my "Mini Me." She loved music and she was interested in one day maybe being a chorus teacher. We liked the same songs and we had the same type of humor. Everyone said she was just like me, even though most of it was coincidental. Really, she marched to the beat of her own drum and was a free, independent thinker. Plus, she knew how to rock the coolest hair styles! But those weren't the only things I loved about her. Truth be told, it was really the other way around. I looked up to her. It amazed me how a girl so young could act so grown up. She was so genuine and would help anyone at any time with no questions asked. Alahna was always checking up on her friends. She really did put others before herself and could always make you smile. We had so many great times together. She taught me the latest "selfie" pose (the one where you put two fingers up, like a peace sign, in front of your face) when it first came out and she was part of a group of students who basically lived in the chorus room so much that we decided to start calling it Club 122, because Duh!... only cool people hang out in the chorus room ;) And, oh! When she came into my classroom everyday... let me tell you... You want to talk about someone that sings with passion and purpose?!? This girl was that person without a doubt! It was an honor and privilege to work with Alahna at Westridge. She had such a passion for music, so naturally she was in both chorus and musical theatre. Having her in the choral department for her entire middle school career is something I never took and never will take for granted. She was the title role in "Annie" last year and she was phenomenal. She was performed in MPA and All County Chorus. She was always growing; always learning... always willing to try something new and become better - and book smart, too! She always knew what my hard vocabulary word for the day was because, in her words, "I used to read the dictionary, Miss." That always cracked me up. I never wanted to believe her, but she was just so serious, in a way that basically read as "You mean you don't read the dictionary?!" haha! Such an angelic voice and beautiful, flawless character. I will forever miss sweet, dear Alahna, but I am eternally grateful that she is in a better place and that, because of her, my life has "been changed for the better... because I knew you... I have been changed for good." Rest in Peace, Alahna. Praying for all of Alahna's family and friends during this very difficult time.
