

Alex Deborja, Sr.

May 28, 1959 - April 3, 2015

Alex De Borja, Sr. 55, of Orlando Florida passed away April 3, 2015. A person that was never selfish, a person that was generous without asking for anything back. Since he was a kid he was already helping his parents in all matters. As a young kid he had a lot of ambition in life, not for himself, but for his family. He worked in different companies and establishments. Even though it hurt him to leave his family in the Philippines, he stayed strong and worked abroad to help and achieve his goal. With all his hard work, he inspired a lot of people and touched their lives and dug deep into their hearts. As well as that has been said, his hard work paid off, it may not be a 100%, but little by little he achieved one of his goals, which was to have his family with him. He was a simple guy with a big heart and dreams, to reach and continue to fight for life and family.

Alex was a guy that gives inspiration to others, to people he knew, to people he had no idea of who they were. And in times of trouble he was always there to give a helping hand. It didn't matter what ethnicity, gender or age they might have been. He has been not only a father figure but a real father to everyone he comes across. He gives 110% every single time to whatever he sets his mind to. He would give the shirt off his back, if necessary, to make you feel comfortable and welcome. He did his best to make people smile and laugh, through whatever trials they may be facing. He would never give up on you, he would support you with every decision you made, either it be right or wrong, and he would never judge you. He would always treat you with respect and love, like you're his own son or daughter.

As we all know how he was a Manager, Co-worker, Friend, a Second Dad, Brother, Best friend, Father and a Loving Husband, we should all remember all the good things he has taught us. He is a happy guy who keeps watching us from above with a big smile on his face. We should all remember all the good times we had with him and treasure it, it is the only thing that no one can take away from us, he may not be with us physically but in our hearts and minds he will always be there and the memory of him will remain forever.

“ Alex was the most selfless, positive and encouraging friend I have ever had. I would always confide my problems and concerns to him and every single time he had something positive to say. His Faith in God was so strong it helped me strengthen my own faith. He loved his family very much, he would always tell me they were the reason he kept on fighting because he wanted to be there with them to enjoy their presence as well as create beautiful memories together. He always talked about how strong his wife was and how much she's helped him throughout his life. He was truly a blessing in my life, his friendship helped me grow in so many positive ways I can't be grateful enough. Even when I went to see him at the hospital just hours before he passed he showed me his love. As I was telling his wife how much I love him, he moved confirming what the family had tell me was true (that he could hear me). I am relieved to know that although I think about him every day and I miss him very much he is in a better place now, where he's pain-free and watching over his family and every single one of us, his friends he dearly loves.

“ He is an amazing person a loving brother "DIKO " is how we call him. a great family man. A good son. A clown that always brings smile to the face of all the people he knew. He thought me how to be strong and independent. A hard workng person. Smart. Words are not enough to describe him. He will give you even the last cent in his pocket if you seek his help. I am blessed to have a brother like him. Me, my wife and my kids will miss him. We love you diko. You are the BEST.

“ Alex had the best sense of humor, he would see the bright side of every situation. He was a very proud father, always talking about his family and seeking their well-being...he was one of the hardest-working persons have ever met. Everyone liked him and could count on him. You will deeply missed, Alex!

“ He is a good person that i can say, we grew up, together, He's like a father of my kid's too.... He is full of promises, and whatever he promised he will do it.. He is the one who helped me, where am i now.He thought me how to be strong,.. How to be positive in life, Diko as i used to call him, He will help you no matter what! If i tell him my problems, he will alway's tell me, dont worry we can candle it!There's a lot of memories will remain in my heart.... I know He is with our Heavenly Father now, with our love ones... Diko We Love You! Till we meet again...
