“ I can't believe this... My heart just Skipped a beat.. I can't believe that he's gone, I hate to write this post because I should've kept in contact after leaving Dunkin and now you're gone.. I miss the way you made me laugh, I miss your laugh, I miss how he used to whisper and curse and I say "Exuse me Barry?, or Barry watch your mouth" and he'd reply "O.K mom" 😊😓 and the talks we had about life and society, I miss how everyday from the morning til night you came to Dunkin and ordered a small cup of coffee with 3 cream no sugar.. as I'm typing this the tears pour out because now it's setting in that you are gone... Barry was a very outgoing person and didn't take bs from no one. He was a big kid at heart and he will forever be loved and missed, and I will mainly miss him letting me know no matter how people were towards me to keep being me never to change the way I am just work harder.. I love you Barry 😭

“ Barry, my dear friend, where to start? To find a single memory and share it seems impossible. I will miss your smile, your sense of humor and words of wisdom. You were always there for everyone else with positive words of encouragement and love. I'm sure you're flying high with angels but your passing is heavy on my heart. My prayers and support to Barry's family, the world lost a great man :(rip Barry, I still can't believe this is real :(:(

“ Sharing A memory of Barry is a task, as there are so many. But i remember the first time I met Barry - in Toontown - There was this crazy old guy making jokes creating smiles and laughter. I was told to join him, so i did and the craziness just got out of control from there. Barry and I got to hang out a lot as we worked at Give kids the World Village. We started serving dinner, and expanded our craziness to the ice cream shop and eventually the train. When Barry was driving the train, you just didnt know where you were going to go, or which direction he would take you. I believe Barry's goal was get make the world smile and laugh and he worked very hard doing so. Barry's craziness was contagious. He spread it to everybody and got as many people to come to the village and help out. Believe it or not, I saw a serious side of Barry a few times. He would help you out at the drop of a hat. Whatever you needed or whatever had to be done to help, and Barry was your guy. I consider it an honor to have known Barry, and to have him as my friend.
