“ Christopher and I worked at Carmax together for a few years and stayed in touch off and on. I'm sorry I failed you as a friend. Your smile would light up a room, your love for friends and family was a great quality of yours, our ideas of buying a boat to opening a new business will never be forgotten my old friend. I will see you again. Rest in peace brother. Thank you for blessing me with your friendship.

“ I remember meeting Chris on board a cruise ship. They were celebrating their honeymoon. He had such an amazing smile and notice that my family and I were saying grace. We immediately started talking about God. This would only be the beginning of a loving relationship between families. He was a New Yorker like me so we had our laughs about our city. Just the other month we saw him at church and he said hey to me and my husband we have to go out and eat together. I only wish we would have done that. But I can still see that smile and always joking and the love he had for God and his friends. He was family like a baby brother one I knew was pure at heart. I will solely miss you my friend but will never ever forget you. To me you are still here and I know one day we will all be joined together again. Until then my brother my friend take your rest. I love you always. Linda and Keith your NYC family.
