“ Dana and I went through LM orientation together back in Sep 2008, even though he was transferring to Orlando and I was new. We ended up working together immediately and was a great person to lean on. He was there to help and guide me through many challenges. Times we would talk about family and events outside of the office. He was a fantastic co-worker and even better friend. Take care my friend as you will be missed.

*Sincerely,
Lance*

“ Dana was my designated "buddy" (assigned person to ensure that new employees get acclimated well to the job) on my first day/week of work. He took me to lunch, showed me around the plant, talked to me about the culture at work, etc. I remember when we went to lunch and he was talking about his 2 kids, and his grandson, and family and we just chatted about life. I remember thinking what an amazing, chill, down-to-earth-guy he was. Throughout the past few years, as we have worked together, I never saw Dana frustrated or upset. He always had all the answers and knew exactly what to do and how to explain the data. I learned a lot from him personally and professionally. He taught me so many technical things that helped me in my job at work, but more importantly he taught me by example how to not let work get to me and to remain calm and enjoy life no matter what happens.
Dana, I will miss you my good sir!
