DERWOOD "WOODY" DROBOT

Derwood Lee Drobot, 81, of Zellwood, Fl. died Sept 9th, 2015. "Woody" Drobot, son of Edward and Mildred Drobot, passed away at his home in Zellwood, Fl. He is survived by his sons Glenn (and wife, Donna) and Paul (and wife, Jona), and his grandchildren Spencer and Daniela. Woody had multiple careers in his life starting out as a professional baseball player after being signed out of high school by the Detroit Tigers. After that career ended, Woody took his love of sports and coaching and became a very successful high school coach in multiple sports in the downriver Detroit area and then went on to become a college educator in the Health Dept. where he made headlines at Wayne State University for piloting a class that rewarded students for achieving their personal health and life goals. After leaving the WSU staff, Woody spent the majority of his professional career as an entrepreneur in the bar and restaurant industry, owning four very successful establishments, including the extremely popular Suds Factory in Ypsilanti, Mi. A private memorial service was held by his family.
