“ Estimada Familia Rodriguez siento mucho su perdida y se por el momento doloroso que estan pasando y me gustaria compartir con ustedes unas palabras de consuelo que se encuentra en la biblia en (Juan 5:28,29) En esos textos Jehova Dios nos promete que las personas que han muerto volveran a la vida y seran resucitadas es decir que no todo termina aqui, espero que este texto le sirva de aliento. Acompañadoles en su dolor.

“ Emilia met a young US soldier named Adalberto Rodriguez and fell immediately in love with him even though she was only 15 years old when she first laid eyes on him. The feeling was mutual and they married shortly after his discharge. That relationship produced three children (Emily, Elizabeth, and Alberto Jr) and a treasure chest of memories. Their love for each other and for their immediate and extended family never waived in the 54 years they spent together. The family albums are full of photos from all of the birthdays, holiday parties, weddings, and baby showers that followed -- most of the events celebrated at Emilia and Berto's home. Emilia was a "pit bull" who fiercely defended her culture (of which she was so proud) and defended those she loved. She was loud in all of the things we love about her. She yelled loudly, laughed loudly, fought loudly, cooked in gigantic proportions. Her Puerto Rican cooking skills are legendary and the food was so good that we all grew in size eating at her table over the decades. The only thing larger than her spirit and our growing waistline was her "heart" and the sense of family and community she fostered in all of us. "Migingina" (as she is affectionately called) was big in life and will be bigger still in our memories of her. She left much for us to cherish about her -- that is why our love for her is so deep and our sense of loss so great.
