“ Lisa, Debbie, Heather, and Jason, I am so sorry to hear of your loss. Growing up with you there on Prospect Street I have such warm memories of your home there with your mom and how she treated me like one of her own. I cannot imagine your grief, but know you are surrounded with so much love right now.

The Dead

*The dead are always looking down on us, they say.
while we are putting on our shoes or making a sandwich, they are looking down through the glass bottom boats of heaven as they row themselves slowly through eternity.*

*They watch the tops of our heads moving below on earth, and when we lie down in a field or on a couch, drugged perhaps by the hum of a long afternoon,
they think we are looking back at them,
which makes them lift their oars and fall silent and wait, like parents, for us to close our eyes.*

“ It was a shock to hear of my cousin's passing last week. She looked so happy and healthy in the last pictures I saw of her where she was surrounded by her children. She is with her mom and dad now so I know there is no more pain, sickness or sadness. Rest in peace Evie.
