“ Gary and I became friends in 1974 while serving in the military. We found our lives parallel in some ways. Both of our wives were pregnant and due about the same time. A while later David was born to Gary and Ginger. Amy became part of our family. While they were not born the same day, both were in the hospital at the same time. Soon after exiting the military, I was transferred to Houston and that is where Gary lived. So we started the grilling and swapping lies again. The chicken was never done until the beer was gone. (or so we told our wives)

Gary was a kind and transparent man with many talents. The world and our family will miss him.
