“ Jim worked for our family for over 25yrs.
Hammock Bros Roofing was proud to have Jim as our manager on the Disney job at The Grand Floridian hotel which lasted 1 1/2 yrs. It was 3300 squares. High in the air. Steep. At the conclusion of the job....the crane left and Jim realized they had forgotten to install the weathervane on top of grand ballroom.
No problem...Jim simply climbed on his brother Carl's shoulders and put it in place.
Our copies of those photos burned up when our business burned to the ground in 1998.
Jim was an eternal optimist. Great friend.
Talented roofing mechanic. Fly high on your new journey man.
Peace and love from Joel and Tina Hammock

“ I met Jim 14 years ago. We lived just around the corner in the same neighborhood. Jim stopped by while i was loading my truck for the next days job and help mewith the last items, before he introduced himself. We became close friends and room mates while we both went through our divorces. He taught me alot of what i know about roofing, but more than that, about life, or a perspective of life that i hadnt entertained before. Jim was a true blue friend, one of those people that impacted my life and is part of who am today. I miss him dearly, a truly great person, i am blessed to have gotten known him as well as i did.

“ I met Jim in a Divorce class that was held at First Christian Church. I was divorced in 2006 and I think the class was one or two years later. He was very unhappy at that time, but I got to know that he was a very nice person. I know he loved his children and riding his motorcycle. I will always remember his kind smile. He loved God and he volunteered his services at Church. I will really miss not seeing him anymore. R.I.P Jim my friend.
