“ Mama...I AM SO LOST WITHOUT YOU. You were my best friend & the ONLY one who understands me. People say it gets easier with time but that's not true because it's been almost 5yrs and it hurts more because I miss you more as time goes by.

“ Trying to get my life together and be the person you wanted me to be but its hard.. im 20 bt i still feel like im 12, i still need you to teach me things and support me on everything... bt i dnt want to complain because i feel like in a way, the last couple of months you kind of prepared me for this responsibility. And i won't let you down, i know you are watching me so its only going to motivate me more to finish college and every other obstacle.. i love you soooooooooooooooooo much and you are talked about every single day as if you were here... i miss you.. 💕

“ I miss you soooooo much mommy... nothing is the same anymore... nothing feels right... we talk about you everyday but its not enough, it feels unreal that you're not here, I've spent literally almost every single day of my life with you other than when you were in and out of the hospital.. I try to remember what you would tell me about being a strong person but its soo hard because I cry every single day... I love you soo much and I miss our little arguments and "truck rides". :(

“ Ms. Patterson, as I sit here attempting to type a message tears flow from my eyes. You were such a inspiration to my life. You fought a hard battle and never gave up. At every office visit you came in with a smile, no matter how much pain you were going through. My heart goes out to your lovely family. Adrienne I just want to let you know how much I respect you. You were there for her at every office visit you were her support system doing her time of need. Now she is your angel watching down from heaven over you & your family. Ms. Patterson rest in peace.

Dear Janice, although it had been a while since we seen or talked to each other I know we still shared a bond no one else could break. Same year and month, but 2 days apart. I remember you always saying (well I'm the oldest) lol . Well you're not suffering any more and I know you and Aunt Mamie, and Uncle James got a lot of cooking and baking to do. You're one of God's Angels, and you smiling down on us saying, you're ok. Until we see each other again cousin REST IN PARADISE
