“ Welp Genell Lady they have crossed the line now. The cult that divided this family has awakened something in my. Kailey and her cult bullshit had my child in tears tonight. I could only hold her after I told mother and so called sister which is questionable but that's something else I won't get into here. So upset these people ever knocked on your door. Other innocent people should be warned and seeing my child cry like that tonight be she was belittled and overhead a conversation by someone that she thought had such love for her but at least my baby see now that the love is fake and a front unless if you're not on their path. Such blind hypocrites. I talk now and people don't like it but like my tribe says....We'll you should know.

“ They been showing out every since I found out the so called religion was a cult..I know you smh,I should be at hospital with dad but got told by some cross da water wanna be to get his power of attorney as if they care. I don't what the value of these jhoevah points. People should leave regular people alone since they're not going to give a damn when that person messes up. I do know people need to leave my daddy alone..not like they been helping with anything until now and then got the nerve to call elders. The fake caring is so maddening . I just feel sorry for a lot of them. But no one seen nothing yet when it comes to pops. Sorry I didn't speak up for you back then. 😞

“ Hey Momma. I just stopped by to say hello. It's been over three years since you left us. I keep trying to make since of it, but I can't. It doesn't make any sense to me at all. Momma, you was such a good person. You were a great person mom. I know you were not perfect, but you were the perfect mom. I see things in the world that I know you would like, and I want to get them for you. For a moment, I think you are still here and I want you to have those things; and then I realize you are gone, you're gone momma. In one way, I know you're not suffering anymore and I'm glad of that but in the other way you're gone, you're gone. You had to go to stop suffering. I'm so glad you're not suffering, but I wish you didn't have to go. It's so hard without you. I know you knew your cancer had came back before the doctors told us. You didn't tell us because you didn't want us to worry. You were always taking care of us when we should have been taken care of you. I remember the last time we came back from a cruise; it was in December, 2012. It was real cold that month. I remember a couple years later we were in the kitchen talking about going on another cruise. I wanted to take you on the biggest ship. I'll never forget, we were just talking and you said something that stuck with me. You said, "I'm not gonna make it back out there on that water." I couldn't understand at the time why you said that ; but in looking back I now know. You knew momma, you knew. You knew. I talk to your picture I have hanging on my wall a lot of times. It helps a little, it helps a little. I don't know what direction to go in. I know you wanted me to take care of Jevon. I've been doing that as best as possible. I wish I could get him to move up here with me. He will not do it because he has privileges in the Kingdom Hall because they know him there and he most likely will not have those same privileges up here because they don't know him here and he doesn't know them. This is just the sort of things I would ask your guidance on. I wish he could live in your house, but the way Demetric is behaving, it would never work out. I thought he would change once you passed, but he has not. I don't believe he ever will. You always had faith in us because all people can change. I guess he will when he will. I'm sorry to tell you momma that I don't have that kind of faith. Jevon's been living with Brenda, but she would like for him to get his own place. I don't believe he will be safe living by himself. I've seen how people take advantage of him, even family members. It sickens me. It truly does. I don't blame Brenda for wanting him to move out. He's been there for three years. Maybe her and John just want their home to themselves. There's nothing wrong with that. When I leave Jacksonville I'll get a place down there that he can call home. I'll take care of him momma, I'll take care of him. You don't need to worry. I'll set things up so that when I leave this world, he'll be provided for. Don't you worry. Halbert had a birthday the other day. I send him money when I can, so don't worry about that either. Everything is gonna be alright. Everything's gonna be alright. I love you and miss you momma. I love you and miss you.

“ So many beautiful places I wish you could have seen. I'm always saving stuff to come show you but then I realize you're not over there anymore. In 3 years I got over 6000 pictures I gotta show you. . I might print them and make a book for you I really hope you know how much I love you. I know you use to be really depressed but you loved life. You could hide it well like me. I get so angry sometimes because I feel like you were robbed of life and you just didn't deserve that. You had that unconditional love for people that they speak of in the bible, so many of us won't get to experience that again. It just wasn't time for you to go. I was just thinking about you since your birthday is next week. I remembered I had to show these to you. I'll come talk to you later. Love you.

“ Hey Momma. Happy Mother's Day. I just wanted to stop by and let you know that you're still on mind. I still miss you so much. I feel lost in this world without you. It's been three years. A part of me keeps thinking that you are coming back, then reality sets in and I know that you are not. I still can't make sense of it. I was out today and I overheard two people talking about someone who lost their momma in the past. The man said yeah, she lost her Momma two years ago, and she hasn't been right since. Momma I tell you, that hit so close two home. It hit so close to home. I try and be happy and find happiness in life but it just doesn't work out, it just doesn't work out. I'm empty momma. I'm running on empty. I wish I go just talk to you one more time, just one more time and I know everything would be alright. It would be alright momma. I love you momma, i love you. Your son Will.

I miss you so much now. You were the only one who loved me no matter what. I been going through so much since you've been gone. I'm hurting so much right now. Your're gone and it seems as if I don't have a mother either. She shunns me because I don't go to meetings or conventions anymore. It hurts really bad, A persons religious beliefs should be a personal thing. She has treated me different every since I told her about the pedophile issue the Watchtower Society has. You would think I'm the pedophile the way she acts. I have read the witnesses are supposed to shunn people who are inactive or fading away. I'm not even baptized and she treats me like that. I've been told I'm mentally diseased and need to be baker acted because I don't believe the same as her. My heart hurt so much grandma. I wish I just died with you.

“ Hey Moma. I just wanted to stop by and talk to you. Moma I would take your place in a heartbeat if I could. We lost Aunt Sara this year. I know how much you loved her. To me it seemed like you two were sisters. I remember how you would drive out to her house every now and then. We had fun playing with her kids, Bernard, Theresa, and Deborah. Man, I miss those days. You all laughing and joking about things in the past. All I wanted to do was grow up and become grown; now I just wish for those days to come back. I know I say it all the time, but i still can't believe you're gone. I guess deep down I know you're gone but a part of me believes you are coming back so I hold on to that little bit of hope that you are somehow still here. I wake up thinking about you and go to sleep thinking about you. It really don't matter to me if I wake up or not. I'm not living, I'm just existing. I wake up in the morning and go to sleep at night. I'm hardly able to get anything done during the day. I can't concentrate on anything for any length of time. I forget things a lot. I don't know what's going on with me, I just don't know. i really don't care to be here. This world, this world is cruel. It seems like nobody cares about anything anymore. Politicians fool people into thinking they can make things better; they can't, but I guess people need something to believe in. One day maybe someone determined will gain control of the ultimate weapon and plunge three world into chaos and eventually extinction. This world needs to be extinct. There's nothing here's for mankind, this world would have ceased a long time ago if the power was mine to do so. I guess I'm just rant and raving and acting out, sometimes people just need to do that. I pray for you momma because you believed, maybe just believing helped you to endure. I'm glad you've never had to see some of the things I've seem. I hope most people never do. I love you momma, I love you and always will.

It still hurts so so much. I'm never gonna get past it or over it but for you, I'm trying my best to get through it. I know you don't want me to be sad, but it's just so hard not to be. I'm gonna keep trying for you momma, I'm gonna keep trying. I wish I could just talk to you again. I know if I could, every thing would be alright. “ Hello Mama. Today marks two whole years since you left us. Geez; two years. Why is time in such a hurry? I don't know. I wish I did. I really, really miss you moma. It's still hard for me to accept that you are gone. I just want time to stop and stand still and give me time to move past this. I don't know if time will help though. I may never get past loosing you; I really don't think I ever will. Thank you so, so much for taking care of us the way you did. You were a Miracle Worker mama. The way you took such good care of us with so little to work with; that's was truly a miracle and I laud and celebrate you for it. Mom you were not perfect, but you were the perfect mom. I will shout that from the rooftops and from the mountain tops. Sometimes I still feel lost and directionless mama. I have tostay strong and keep plugging away. The demands are building up but I'm trying to keep my head above water. There's just a lot involved in dealing with things, a lot involved. We are all doing okay. The stress can sometimes be overwhelming but I try to deal with it as best possible. I know the stress is taking an enormous toll on me. I need to develop some type outlet to relieve this stress. We are all doing okay as best as we can. We will keep using the tools of life you gave us all to guide our direction in life. Again moma, thank you for all you did for us. I love you mama. “ Hello Mama. I just wanted to let you know that we are all still missing you very much. We made it into 2017 but no New Year will ever be the same without you. Mama, I'm still grieving for you. I will never get used to the fact that you are gone, you're not here anymore. How much I wish I could just talk to you again, see you again. I just wish for it so much mama, so much. I'll keep praying mama, I'll keep praying and maybe the hurt and pain will ease one day. I pray to Jehovah God that it will. I'm lost without your wisdom mama, I'm lost. You were always so genuine mama, so genuine. Family was everything to you mama. You were our glue that kept us all together and you always will be. You were our miracle. The way you took care of us with so little to work with and no complaints. This world never got you down mama, you never let it get you down. You were the best example mama, the best example. I know my mama wasn't perfect, but to your children, you were the perfect mom. I love and miss you so much. I posted a video of Niagara Falls under your more memories album because I know how much you liked the water. You would have loved being there mama, you would have loved being there. “ Hey momma. I just wanted by and say hello. I still you miss you so much. We all got together and had dinner at house on thanksgiving. It was something Helen wanted to do so we made it happen. It was good for the family to be together but it also bittersweet because you were not in the kitchen like you always would be. Ira and I talked about that as we sat outside in the back yard trying to make sense of things. He's still taking it really hard as well, because it doesn't make sense. You should be here with us. You should not have suffered the way you did. I keep telling myself that I will never get over losing you but with God Jehovah's help I will get past it. Momma it's been over a year and a half and everyday I wake up, it's still June 1, 2015. It's like a nightmare that I keep reliving. I don't know what Jehovah has in store for me, but I keep being patient and soldiering on because I know you would want me to go on. It's hard without you but I know that's what you would want. I just need to make sense of things and I can't seem to do it. I sometimes feel like I'm at a point where there is no point, and that's not any way to live because that's not living, that's just existing. One day I'll figure it out mama, one day I'll figure it out. I love you mama. I'll always love you. Your son.

“ Hey Moma. It was a year ago today you were taken away from us. It feels like yesterday. I guess everybody is getting along as best as they can. It seem like time stopped for me when you left. I never hurt so much in my life. I just can't bring myself to believe it is real. I know it is but I just keep thinking of you in the present tense. I have my ups and downs. Most of my downs is when I face reality and know you're not coming back. A friend of mine asked me the other day if God hears the prayers of Black people. I quickly told him yes because I know the faith you had in Jehovah God. The saddest part about it is I didn't really believe myself what I was telling him, but I told him yes anyway because I don't want to stumble anyone. There are just so many questions about your passing that I don't have the answers to. I have prayed and prayed to Jehovah and begged him for answers but there have been no answers. I wanna have the type of faith in Jehovah God you had. I'm getting tired of pretending and presenting to the world that everything is alright when it's not and it hasn't been since you left. I prayed so hard for Jehovah to take the sickness of the cancer and give it to me. You loved life so much, you loved the world. All I see in this world is darkness. I try and convince myself otherwise and tell myself not to be angry because I know you would not want me to be angry. Maybe anger is just what I need. I need to be angry at God because pretending I'm not is hypocrisy! I'm angry! Why were you taken away, why? Helen prayed for a miracle but I knew no miracle was going to come because I didn't have faith in no miracle. I will keep trying to work on my relationship with God but to be honest, I couldn't care less. I may as well say it out loud if that's what I'm thinking. I'm sorry moma. I'm sorry. I know Jehovah is real but I just feel he has turned his back on me and I don't know why. You should still be moma, you should still be here. I'm just angry moma, I'm just angry. Why were you taken away. You did so much good in this world, you did so much good. I need to understand, I need to understand. I'm hurting so bad moma, I'm hurting so bad. Be at peace moma, be at peace. I love you so, so much.

“ Hey Momma, I'm still thinking about you and still wishing you were here. I sometimes just sit and stare and think about you. I'm still wondering why. I'm still wondering why. How I wish you was here. I still have your cell phone number in my phone with your name on it. I just look at it over and over again. I wanna call, hoping you will answer but I know you won't. It gives me a little comfort seeing your number. It gives me hope that you are just a phone call away. That's why I don't call it, because then reality will set in and I know you are more just phone call away. The hurt is still so raw, but I keep praying and I do my best to keep going because I know that's what you would want.

I remember when I used to try and talk to you about what if something happened to me on the job and what you should do. You never wanted to talk about it. I know why now. We never want to think that someone who means so much to us in our life will be taken away. We think if we never talk about it, it will never happen. But life is cruel. It makes us face what we believe is the impossible, what we believe is impossible to face.

I don't know how I'm making it but I wake up every day and I start going. Sometimes I don't want to wake up, a lot of times actually. I walk by your picture every morning before I go out the door, and I walk by it every time I come back through the door and return home. I sit and talk to your picture a lot.

I never really cared for this world like you did. I wish sometimes that I do, but I don't. I don't think I ever will. I just exist in this world. I don't live. I am so sad all the time. I'm sad because I miss you, I miss you so much. I would have easily taken your place.

I hear about people I know being diagnosed with life ending diseases. They are so sad because they don't want to go. I find myself being angry because it's not me. I know God can't possibly want me to live like this, live in such pain. So I go on. I'm giving it time to get better but I'm silently wishing to myself that it won't.

I'll keep going momma. I'll keep going for you and the rest of the family. I just wish so much you were still here, but I'm glad you are no longer in pain. Your life had a lot of pain in it momma, pain that you never deserved; pain that I could not stop and that pains me most of all. I love you mamma. I love you. I'm sad, but I'll stay strong. I'll stay strong for you.

Your Son, Will

“ Hey moma. Seven months have come and gone and I'm still missing you like crazy. When the New Year turned over this morning I was up. I tried to keep it together but I just couldn't hold it in. I broke down, I broke down bad. It hurt so much that 2016 came and didn't find you with us. I hate 2015 and always will because you suffered immeasurably that year; but by the same token if I could turn back the hands of time I would go back to the first part of 2015 because you were a part of it. I miss you so much moma I don't know what to do. I don't know what 2016 will bring me. It really doesn't matter with me now. I know it won't bring you back to me, and that's the sad part. I'm in so much pain with you being gone mama, so much pain. I love you mama, we all love you. I wish I could tell you that I've gone on living since you left moma but I haven't . I don't live anymore I just exist and when you are just existing there are only two things you can do, get busy living or get busy dying. I'm gonna try to be strong moma. I love you. Your son Will “ Hey Mama. Mama it's been six months to the date since you left us. A half of a year has passed. Momma, it just doesn't feel like it. It still does not seem real. I think of you every day. I miss you so much that it hurts and aches all the time. You are not in pain anymore, and you are not suffering. I wanted your pain and suffering to end. We all did, but we still just miss you so much. Jehovah has been helping me cope. I am trying to draw closer to him with each passing day and it has been a big help. We love and miss you mama. I love you so much. Your son Will.

“ Mama, it's been five months today since you left us. Your presence was so much larger than life that I'm still struggling with your loss. We all wanted you to stay forever but we also wanted your pain and suffering to end. I love you and miss you so much. I know if I have said it once I have said it ten times, it still doesn't seem real. I don't know if I ever will. I miss talking to you on Sundays, I think about you every time when its time for our Sunday talk; I always will. I love mama, your son Will.

“ Mama. It's been four months since you left and it still feels like yesterday. I don't know what's going on. Life hasn't been the same. It never will be. If I could just turn back the hands of time.

I guess that's where we all make our mistakes, thinking we have more time and yet we never do. Sundays come and go now, but when the clock strikes 10 o'clock I think about calling you. I say to myself that if I could just be with you and talk to you one more time everything will be alright. I'm just fooling myself I guess. It will never be alright. I'm just telling myself something to try and ease the pain.

I look back and reflect on some of the things you would say when we would talk. It's like a part of you knew. I remember we would talk about trying to plan for another cruise, and you would say you were not going to make back out there on another cruise. A part of me knew what you meant but neither one of us wanted to say it or talk about it. I guess we sometimes think if we don't talk about something then it will just go away.

I know you were tired mama, I know you were tired. You just gave and gave so much of yourself; and people just took and took so much from you. You worked right up to the point where you just physically couldn't anymore. And then on your sick bed you couldn't even rest because of the pain you were suffering through. That's the part I don't understand and I never will. You should not have had to suffer the way you did. You suffered enough on the earth just making a way for your children. There is just no way I will ever understand that, no way, no how, NO! It wasn't right! It wasn't right.

I miss you mama. I miss you. I miss you and I love you. We all love you. I will never get used to the fact that you're gone. If I have said it once I have said it a thousand times, it just doesn't seem real. I'm sorry mama. I'm so sorry I couldn't stop it. Maybe one day life will get back to some sense of normalcy; I know that is the way you would want it. So I will keep trying, day by day mama; day by day.

You always loved being around the water, I would give anything to set sail and cruise with you one more time, if only for a little while. I love and miss you mama. Wishing you were here. It's been three long months since you left, and it still has not gotten any easier, I don't know if it ever will.

Mama, they all say there is a reason. They all say that time will heal. But no amount or reason or time will ever change the way I feel. Mama nobody knows the heartache that I hide deep inside. Nobody knows how many times I have broken down and cried. But I love thinking about you mama, in that there is no doubt. Because you are so wonderful to think of and so very hard to be without. I just wanted you to know that its still rough and your baby boy ain't doing so tough. Day by day mama. Day by day. I love you. Your son. Will

“Mama, I still don't understand why you had to go so soon. I can't stop waking up crying tears. Everything just happened so fast. I know you were suffering and I didn't want that anymore but God only knows it's been dark days since you left. I just don't understand, I don't understand. I pray to Jehovah to help me. I got so many questions. I never thought that one week to the day after sitting at your bedside and you telling me to stop crying, because I couldn't stop your pain, and let you be; that you would be gone. Why mama, why. You worked so hard all your life taking care of other people. You never stooped working until you just wasn't physically able to anymore. You never got a chance to really enjoy any of your life. Mama, I want you to know I enjoyed taking you on trips to see your family. There was so many more trips I wanted to take you on, you just went down hill so fast and I just don't know why, I don't know why. I miss you so much. It's not getting easier. Every Sunday evening at 10:00 I wanna call you so we can talk about our week but I can't, I can't. You're not there anymore and it hurts, it hurts so bad. Mama, if I could talk to you or hold you then every thing would be alright. It's never alright again mama, it's never gonna be alright. I love you and I miss you so much. I have to figure out a way to go on because I know that's what you wanted. I'm not gonna let you down, I'll somehow figure out how to go on mama, I'll do it, I promise. I promise I'll do it. I love you mama, I love you. I'm gonna be there for the family like you want me to be. We will be okay, we will be okay. Jehovah God will have to give us strength, but we will be okay. Just rest mama, just rest. We will take it from here. I promise.”

“ I will sorely miss my Dear Granny. I look forward to the day when the words of Daniel 12:13 are fulfilled. ('but as for you, go on to the end. You will rest, but you will stand up for your lot at the end of the days') To see her 'stand again', her beautiful face, and that smile of hers. Just a little while longer and I will see her again in paradise, just as Jehovah promised; all will come true. For Jehovah cannot lie: Titus 1:2!

We look forward with you in welcoming back our dear loved ones during the resurrection.

Jeanell will enjoy paradise on earth, where she can grow the most beautiful flowers.

She loved Jehovah and she loved her family. She would want us to keep worshipping Jehovah and do our best to keep our lives in harmony with God, so we can be in paradise with her.

“ My mother, my friend, my confidant. Momma, the pain I feel with your passing is almost unbearable. It's hurts so much. My only comfort comes from Jehovah God and knowing that you are no longer suffering and you are no longer in pain. I will miss your wise counsel. I will miss your strong faith. I will miss your positive uplifting spirit; but above all else I will truly miss you. You believed in me, and your faith in me never wavered. Thank you for your love and support.

You told me your favorite scripture was Psalms 55:22, Throw your burden upon Jehovah God....I will again follow your counsel and throw the burden of the pain I'm feeling upon his shoulders. I know from your strong belief he will sustain me and see me through this.

Momma, there were so many more things I wanted to do for you, so many more things I wanted to do with you, make you smile, make you laugh, make you happy but never make you sad. I hope I never did. I always tried to be the best son possible, because you were truly the best mom. I know Jesus was the only perfect person, but you were the perfect Mom!

I will never get over this; but because you want me to, I will get past this and go on. I will only do this because I have learned from your strength. As I said, I know you were not perfect; but the only fault that I can think of, is that you left us way too soon. I so wish that I could hold you.

I know how much you loved flowers, that's why I always got them for you on Mother's Day. My only wish going forward is that I see flowers everyday so I can think of you everyday. The night you died it rained and all I could of think of was that every rain drop was from all the angels crying so much because like me, they were so sad about you. I am so pained right now, but over time this pain will dissipate, unlike my love for you that will last forever.

One of the last things you said to me in the hospital, as I sat at your bedside and held your hand and tried to bring you a little comfort from all the pain you were in. You said Stop crying, let me be. I'm sorry momma, but I let you down; I failed to honor that wish. I cried, and I am still crying so much inside. Please don't worry, one day the crying will stop.

Momma, I will never bring myself to say goodbye to you; I will just say, till we see each other again. I love you momma. Your son, Will Swanson
