“ Timmy John...my baby brother. I remember when he first came home after he was born and holding him while sitting in Papa's chair. He was three years younger than me, so it was a bit before he was actually able to be my playmate, but once he was, it was set in stone. Timmy John was an awesome brother, but he was also a typical pain in the neck little brother. He would always tell on me unless it was something that we both wanted to do and then the partners in crime affect would take hold. We were each others best friends growing up, even when we would get "into it". Timmy wanted to follow me everywhere I went. There were times that we fought as siblings often do, but I could not and would not tolerate anyone messing with my baby brother. I taught him how to ride a bike and we spent years trying to out fish each other (I will concede that he definitely out fished me). I helped him almost ever night with his homework. He was my budy when he wasn't being a baby pain, which we laughed about after we grew up. I can honestly say that I have never known someone that has a heart that was as kind as Timmy John's. He loved family, he loved friends and he loved strangers. If he had the means to help someone or just to make them happy, he would. I feel like a huge part of my heart is missing. He was the baby and should have been the last one standing. I will forever miss and love him with all my heart and soul...

“ I would just like to say I remember Timmy growing up he lived next door to us on Hammerlin Ave. All of us kids played together we used to make Forts on the side of my mom and dads house we would even have haunted houses, it was very fun memories. Then we all grew up parted ways and I haven't seen Timmy in years, he will surely be missed until we meet again. My prayers all go out to his family! 🙏

“ Uncle Timmy,

I know you were with us last night. I felt you there. And I was sure it was you when you sent Timmy the tow truck driver to get our car (nice one ;) At that moment, my heart skipped a beat and I teared up because I knew without a doubt it was you making sure we made it back home to FI safely.

My heart hurts because you're gone... even though I know you are at peace. I'm still trying to wrap my head around why God took you home so soon. I hope you know how much I loved you and how much you meant to me. You always made me smile. You always made me laugh. You were the Uncle who was more like the fun older brother... And I cherish the memories I have of you.

Give Papa, Marie and Grandma a huge hug and kiss from me. Stay with us always.

I love you Uncle Timmy John ❤️
