“Joyce was my mother, Nancy’s, best friend. My mother has never been the same since Joyce passed. Heaven gained an angel the day she left us. Joyce left an impression on not only my mothers life, but mine....she took me to buy my first training bra, she was the first place I drove to when I learned how to drive....she taught me kindness from a very young age when she brought bags of groceries to us when my dad left and when my mother sold some of her favorite things to buy food and pay bills, Joyce bought those items back and gave them back to my mother. Joyce was an unforgettable, kind soul with a gracious smile and infectious laugh and she will forever be missed. Our lives are better because we knew her.

“ It's your favorite time of the year & we miss you so much. Please continue to watch over us, especially those who need you most. I know I was not one of your own, but you treated me as if I were. I am going to try my best to help everyone get through Christmas without you. We love you Joyce, rest in peace.

“ Mom- I loved you so much. If there was one thing I could do, it was that I could always talk to you. I could talk to you about anything. I remember when I was a child, you would say, that if I would just talk to you, then I wouldn't be in trouble; because you just wanted to help me. That kind of approach of having a heart that was always listening, made you the best Mom in the world. You had an open heart, and an open door to your home, too. It let a lot of love and life come your way throughout the years. Something else that I loved about you is that you never pressured me to do anything I didn't want to do. Instead, you had a clever way of simply allowing me to think about what I should be doing; but all the while...you always let me go my own way. Now it is you that has gone your own way. I would not have ever pressured you...against your will...to stay. Just know this...If you ever want to talk, I'll be listening with an open heart, and one day, I too, will come home to your open door. ---With all my love, your daughter, Leslie.

Leslie, these are such wonderful pictures. Your mom was beautiful inside and out and we miss her so much. I am so glad you are sharing these online with everyone. As I said before, she had such a huge heart and caring way about her. She was loved so much by so many. We will miss her dearly, but we have our memories to carry us through along with the love she left with us. She was such a good friend/sister-in-law to me. We had many good talks and visits. Bobby misses his sister so much. He is having a hard time. All our love and prayers to you and family and especially Dave at this time. Godspeed Joy..Much love went with you.
