“ Very sorry for your loss. It was comforting for me to see my old friend had found happiness and salvation and purpose. Thank you to her boyfriend for loving her like you did. It's all I ever wanted was for her to be truly enamored and appreciated for how awesome she was. You went above and beyond, and for that I'm truly thankful. Thank you to her family for never giving up on her and always loving her. She was very fortunate to have the friends and family she did have, and it's evident she will truly be missed by every soul she has touched. KK I've seen you through the best and worst of times. You always came out on top. When I see you again you better be rocking the fuck out. Til then, you will be missed and r.i.p. my sweet new angel.

“ I've seen you all day today, through this younger punk rock girl riding down north orange on her bike & through this older girl who had dreads. They both resembled a part of you I will always remember. I'm so sad you're not here anymore but I'll always cherish the special times you had with me and my children. They adored you. You were so maternal. You would have been a great mother :(now you're resting harder than all of us and are ever present with everything. I love you K. <3

“ Kaley you will be missed by many. You have touched so many hearts. you have been called back home which to the rest of us grieving for you seems too early but The Lord knows what your plan was and now is your time to be with him. I will cherish the moments were shared and feel blessed that I got to experience them with you. rest in peace.
