“ My father was a smart man that knew how to do just about everything. He was always there for his family when ever we needed him. I was always his helper and marveled at all the skills he taught himself throughout his life. I do not have a memory of him that did not involve his quick wit and humor, truly the glue that kept our family together. I will forever be grateful to him for sacrificing himself perpetually for his family, from moving to the US from Cuba to changing jobs to be near us, he was always with us. I love you Papi, I will miss you for the rest of my days.
