“ Dear Father,

For 2 months now, everyone has told me to hold on, that it will be alright, that it gets better. They lied. I don't feel better. In fact, with each passing day, I feel myself die a little more. You told me once that we are all human, that we all die. I understood you daddy, and how I know you were trying to prepare me for what you knew would happen. But Jehorah himself could not prepare me for what I am carrying on my shoulders right now. Not only because I carry the loss of my hero, but also because I am carrying it alone. Freedom meant so much to me 2 years ago because it meant I would see you alive again. Now freedom has almost no purpose for me, at least it feels that way. I have never in my life felt so incomplete as I do right now. Each day, giving up feels like such an attractive option. Giving even seems so much easier.

But you taught me to honor my commitments, to never compromise my integrity. I made a promise to you 2 weeks to the day before you laid to rest. I promised that come what may, I WILL see you in Paradise. And that promise was sealed by the tears that fell from your eyes, telling me you heard and understood. I will keep that promise Daddy, so I will never give up or give in. The values you instilled in me will bring us together again, and the legacy you left with the countless you have (I couldn't understand the word Miguel wrote) to g-d will live on through me. I miss you so much Daddy, so much the pain is almost unbearable at times. But revelation 21:4 tells us that soon "pain will be no more" and neither will this chasm that seperates us. Until then, rest in peace my beloved, and know your son loves you more than life itself. I love you Daddy.

Love for Eternity, Miguelito

“ My dear grandpa, its been a week today since you left to paradise and as i sit here in my office i feel lost. i dont know what to think, i feel like im going to go to sleep and wake up and this was nothing but a really bad dream. Unfortunately thats not the case. my heart is shattered.... i wish i could turn back the hands of time to when i used to live with you and wela, i have so many memories of you from when i was a little girl, like the time when you would chase me all over the house with the flash light on your face, i see you did the same thing to mami too.. Or when you would get "upset" you would say "cheese con crackers" instead of jesus christ. I can go on and on. I miss you so much welo, words cant begin to express what im feeling right now. I really wished that my kids would've had the opportunity to grow up by your side, you are the greatest man i've ever known and i feel so honored that you are my welo. Just relax and enjoy paradise and dont worry about wela, she is surrounded by people that love her and will take care of her. I'm not going to say good bye, I'll simply say SEE YOU LATER! Till we meet again. TE AMO MI VIEJITO CHULO. RIP <3

“ Welo, although I have few memories of you, you've always had a special place in my heart. I remember when my mom, grama Miriam, Monica, and I all went to Florida in 2008 and you were so proud showing us your garden. I remember laying in hammocks. I remember you calling Wela an old lady, when you were older. I remember me calling you a mafioso and joking around because you always looked mysterious with you hat on and a silly look on your face. I also remember Wela not liking me calling you a mafioso lol... most of all I remember feeling right at home by your side. As I sit in my bed surrounded by the two males who rule my life I am sad you never got to meet them and even more that they never got to meet you. Tomorrow will be a week, i am sorry i couldn't visit again but i promise i will visit wela soon. Rest in peace welo, in your garden. Save me a spot until we meet again.

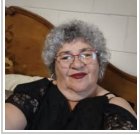

love always and forever your great grand daughter, Kayla

“ I remember you always pinching my finger right above the cuticle, and playing knockadanukoo with us. I remember telling you I love you and you saying I love me too ? I remember your nice hand writing your amazing drawings and your perfect gardening and giving us sugar cane from the back yard. I wish as I got older I came to visit more because tomorrow will be a week and it already feels like a lifetime. My family is lucky to have had such an amazing man raising us all. Everyone that knew you loved you and there is not a question as to why...because you were positive and an amazing husband, father, grandfather, friend and everything else you were to anyone. You will forever live in my heart. I love you and miss you beyond words.

“ I remember you teaching me how to play baseball when we were in Holyoke, and you made the water slide for us in the back yard. You were the most amazing man I've ever known, and if I turn out to be half the man you were then my life was successful, I will take care of Wella. I love you and miss u so much!! You raised your kids, and grand kids to be great!! The arroyo blood runs in all our veins!! Love you so much

“ Please accept my condolences on the loss of your dear loved one, Migues. Take comfort in knowing that our heavenly Creator will soon remove all pain, sorrow, and death forever! May this promise as recorded in Revelation 21:3,4 be of comfort as you gain the strength and inner peace to cope with the days ahead. Philippians 4:13
