“ Happy birthday, daddy! You would've been 82 today. I miss you. Everyday I wish the boys could've grown up with you. I know you would've been their best friend. I love you so much. I bought the house. I couldn't imagine leaving. This is where you last were with us and I needed to hold on to that. Please be with me and push me everyday. I hope you're having a great party up there. ♡

ME

“ It was the darkest day of my life. I still have the clothes I wore that night tucked away in the corner of a drawer. I don't know why. At this moment 3 years ago, I was in an ambulance not far behind yours. They had to make sure Dominic (only a 5 months in my belly) was ok. They soon transferred you to another hospital and I felt a small sense of hope...but that quickly faded 3 days later when you took your last breath. I hope you are ok. I hope you, Charlie, and Willy have found each other and are having the best time. But most of all, I hope you left knowing how much I loved you....how much (like the song you loved for me to sing says) I Will Always Love You.

“ We ere talking about you today. The neighbor told us about how she met you and about how you would walk over to her house.I miss you. I think about you all the time....When Dominic does something silly or cute, I always think about how I wish you could've met him.

Dylan talks to you every night in his prayers. I hope you hear him.....

“ Daddy, I think about you so much. Everyday I hide my pain and hold back my tears because that's a side of me I don't let anyone see. I can't. I think I get that from you. I don't remember you ever being really affectionate or ever wearing your emotions on your sleeve (before your sickness), but I never doubted that you loved us and that mom was the love of your life. I know that these last couple of years had left you with much anger and frustration towards me. Till this day I am not sure if I would've done anything differently. I just don't know...BUT if I could have one wish, it would be to have you back for one day. One day where I could just love you and allow you to do everything your heart desires without consequence. Everyday I hope that you left this world knowing that I loved you. That I still love you...and that I will always love you. My daddy.

“ When you lose someone, they say it gets easier with time. I'm not sure that's true. I think what happens is that life and it's routines begin to carry on as usual and your mind becomes preoccupied with the day by day. But each time I get a moment and/or an important day in our lives comes up, I think about your absence and your last breaths and it's a knife through my heart all over again. I know that maybe that will never change, but I will continue to let life happen because those who are still in it, are worth all of my smiles and happiness. One thing is for sure...I will NEVER forget you and will love you till my dying day. I hope you'll be there tomorrow <\3

“ I was so sadden to hear of the passing of Popi. Popi was such a wonderful polite and gentle person he would do any for anyone in need. My son Joel has beautiful memories of Popi and him. I remember every time he told me a joke he would act it out and I would be crying of laughter. That's the Popi I will always remember. I know how difficult this is to Tamaris Miguelito Zamira and Sabrina among the rest of the family. My heart goes out to the family that I love as my own. May God bless the family now and always and guide you through this difficult time. Always know I'm here for the family. From Grisel Joel Freddy and the rest of my family. We love you Popi you will always rest in my heart.
