“ Grampa thank you for all the lessons you taught me in life. I have many memories of your visits. I will remember you when I see a clown trying to make me smile even if it scares me and I will play McDonald's Monopoly and this time we will be sure to win! I will teach Riley the joys of playing Hide the Whoopie Cushion. I will smile and love life and remember to treat everyone like they are special, because you taught me we don't know what a person has been through, help them find their smile.

You gave us all good values.

I won't for get you.

Love you lot and miss you

Love your

Sabrina Marie

“ Norm was a great friend to my sister Mary. They were both "money counters" at Blessed Trinity and often enjoyed brunch together afterward. Sunday brunch at Bob's was a regular tradition. I became acquainted with Norm through my sister and joined them for brunch when I could. Norm sometimes celebrated holidays with a meal at our place. Though generally a quiet man, he had some interesting stories about his travels and his work. Always gentle and kind, Norm noticed the best in others and encouraged others to be their best.

*With special sympathy to Brian and Tiger on their loss,
