“ My name is Dan. I knew Ivan on a professional level for tree years, but i would consider him a friend. I can say with certainty that he was a generous, and kind, and sensitive person. He always was honest and true to me. He was the only person who ever fixed our AC units without telling us we needed to buy a new one. I read some infomation in the news and I am shocked like Im sure many of his family and friends are. I am here to say, that is not the Ivan i knew and because we were friends and I knew parts about his life that maybe some peope dont, i can also say with certainty that Ivan's behavior was either an accident he couldn't bare to live with or was caused by outside chemicals. He is not an evil person, he is in fact, an amazing person, but i believe at worst he succumbed to a combination of stress but primarily a combination of chemicals that he was using to self medicate off and on. If it werent for the chemicals, this would have never have happened. He was a good man and this is a terrible tragedy for his children and wife and himself. My condolances are with the family of his wife. Ivan should have moderated himself better, but like many of us, we dont fully understand how chemcials can affect us short and long term and what the ramafications of that might lead to. I want his children to know he was not evil and they do not come from evil. That ivan got lost in something he didnt understand and he was depressed and felt overwhelmed by the pressure and all of that was made worse by the chemicals. The world lost the kindest man ive ever met.

Dan, my name is Yadirah, I am Ivan's friend, like a sister to him; I knew him very well, I'm sorry to have read your post, I think it was not fair to him; he was an amazing person, an angel to me and to my sons; he was the reason I moved to Kissimmee with my best friend Ivan, who is his best friend, like a brother to Ivancito; they grew up together, if someone knew him, it was Ivan. After a year I brought my sons to live with Ivan and myself; he won the love of my sons, well, everyone who met Ivancito got to love him! He was a great guy, blessed and he helped everybody who needed help, he was like I said already, an angel! I don't know how that tragedy happened, maybe the jealousy, it was not easy to know that his wife didn't want to be with him, but I know it had nothing to do with the chemicals you're writing about; I know you never met him, his own self! I hope God bless you and forgive you for your ignorant post! Please, pray for forgiveness and for his beloved family! Michelle, I hope you don't forget who your only brother was and I also hope you don't believe the stupidity Dan wrote in his post! May God continue blessing you, your mom and dad, your precious family! If you want to know how much Ivancito made us feel and how much we loved him and miss him, my cell # is (407) 968-4577; the only thing I agree with this Dan is that he was really the kindest man we ever met! 🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏

:) i also said he was the kindest man i ever met. He was an amazing person and i clearly knew well. Well enough to know he purchased his chemicals online through a site called agora using bitcoins and software called tor that makes these transactions anonymous. I even still have texts about these some of these things. But this was not the sum total of the person he was also much more... kind and funny and giving and honest. Ive loaned him money on a couple of occasions, i never asked for proof or a contract and he always paid me back. But kind people are not immune to making mistakes and sometimes get caught up in things. Youre right, he couldnt deal with the stress. Most people who cant turn to any variety of chemicals. He was not a raging addict, he was however heavily self medicating. The worst part of this obituary is ivans death, but the biggest injustice would be to ignore the truth about his death because we cant personally accept tarnishing his name. Not being able to cope emotionally with a bad marriage (hes cried to me about it over beers) does not lead to murder-suicide, but as someone who has experience with chemicals himself, i can tell you, certain chemicals, especially when used over time can make you feel so helpless, death may seem to be the only way out. A positive thing to come of this would be to remember that using chemicals to avoid pain and trauma instead of dealing with pain and trauma is not the healthy . It doesnt help and it leads only to tragedy. I am far from stupid and i try to live my life in the healthiest way possible and that includes honest communication in the face of discomfort or pain. I said what i said to help his children make sense of this mess. He was not evil, he was so good and kind. He did get caught up in something he didnt understand, he was searching for convenient ways to cope and his depression got worse until the day he was so overwhelmed, tragedy struck. I love ivan he was a beautiful person much more beautiful than he was ugly and he also made mistakes. Lets learn from them. Maybe its his final gift.

Dan I know who you are... You're the guy that freak out and called him with a badtrip; he told me. So please stop acting or pretending like you only knew him as a professional level. The guy your taking about is more than a brother to me. Call me; and stop poisoning his family; especially his children. I'm asking you nicely; only one time . If you continue with your BS we are going to have a big problem. This is my tel.# 4073341503. Dead people don't talk; but I'm not dead. I'll be expecting your call. God bless you...

Dan you know that you're talking to much BS; and here is the big problem I told you about yesterday. Let make things clear... Dan now you're trying to save your butt saying that he purchased chemicals online for him, but I know the truth; he did it for you; using your computer at your home. Secondly you're saying that you lend him money sometimes, when we all know that Ivancito always had money , and if he needed money, he will called me or his family; The supposed money you're saying you lend him, it was money that you were giving him so he can buy you chemicals. You really don't know anything about Ivancito; I knew him all my life since we were babies, and the trust we had with each other, was a trust with no secrets; so I know everything about you. STOP ACTING OR PRETENDING YOU KNEW HIM ONLY AS A PROFESSIONAL LEVEL, AND IS TIME FOR YOU TO START TAKING RESPONSIBILITY FOR WHAT YOU DID OR YOU STILL DOING WITH THE CHEMICALS. I DID NOT WANT TO BRING THIS UP BUT YOU'RE FORCING ME TO DO IT BECAUSE YOU DON'T WANT TO STOP TALKING BS ABOUT IVANCITO, TO SAVE YOUR BUTT, WITHOUT KNOWING HIM OR KNOWING HIS PRECIOUS FAMILY... HERE IS YOUR BIG PROBLEM NOW; SO DEAL WITH IT!!!

Actually, i never bought chemicals from ivan. He was not a dealer. He was a person who was experimenting with chemicals because he was miserable. We did talk about where he got them from though. We talked about alot of things. No he didnt use my computer to buy chemicals. If you want clarafication, please talk to his close family. They and i had a very candid conversation about what she and i both knew. The interesting thing is... im trying to validate that ivan wasnt evil by exposing there was something on the exterior of his being fueling his impulsive irrational behavior. If you take the chemicals away, then what? Hes just evil? Explain his behavior then, my friend. Do you really think my intention is to call him one of the most kind and beautiful souls ive ever met and then underhandedly insult him? It doesnt make any sense. Why would i incriminate myself for no reason on an obituary? Also makes no sense. I could simply just stay quiet about it. Bottom line is, Ivan wasnt evil. He got lost, the chemicals played a big role, an unhappy marriage played a big role. I believe he was somewhat a victim. I think about ivan frequently still. Here i am a year later checking to see if his obituary is still online. Anyway, i hope you find peace, i hope everyone finds peace. Mostly i hope ivans children one day read this and are less confused. I hope it answers some questions and its easier for them to make peace. To be honest, i dont really give two cents about anyone else.

Ps. I also believe ivan would want me to do exactly what im doing. This obituary is about honoring him and his children whom i know he loves to the fullest. I dont think he would want them growing up thinking he did this intentionally. Im explaining exactly how an amazing person can end up playing a role in this tragedy. Im doing the opposite of what you think im doing.
