“ We are sorry to read of the passing of your loved one. Words don't always ease the pain when you are grieving the death of a loved one, but we hope you will find comfort in Jesus' promise of the resurrection hope (Acts 24:15) when he will raise up those who are now sleeping in death (John 11:11) restoring them back to life, on the renewed Paradise earth (John 5:28,29; Luke 23:43) what a wonderful blessing to look forward too. Until then, may Jehovah God (Psalms 83:18) grant you peace and comfort during this grievous time.-Matthew 5:4.

“ Rhea lived a life that knew both pain and joy. She had lived with physical illness for well over a decade and bore it with dignity but never despair. She always thought she would get better and those of us involved with her care were astonished at her resiliency; for when we thought she could not possibly improve she would beat all medical predictions and come back to her family one more time. Even as she lost her strength this final time many of us expected to see her beat the odds again. Rhea spent her life beating many difficult odds. She raised three children as a single parent when such a designation was unusual, she worked continuously from a young age until she was simply no longer physically capable of doing so. Her work ethic, independence, and love for her children and siblings were the markers that characterized her life. They are the marks of a life lead in service to others. May she now know a quiet peace and a restful heart.

“ Mom, I can't believe you are no longer here however your presence will always be felt forever. You had a very unique way of showing your love and teaching values to your children that cannot be denied. You raised your children the best that you could andn never stopped caring for one moment. You taught me the meaning of being a hard worker and you amazed me always with your ability to do things such as plumbing, remodeling,or working on a car. I can't was not part of your vocabulary. When I was sick or had come up with my epilepsy, you did not run but seeked out information to help me fully recover. When times got tough you opened your door and heart. Shame on me for sometimes getting upset with you . I am truly sorry for that. You will always be my mother and I will love you forever. You lived your life for your family and I will always be proud to say you were my mom. Love your son, Winnie

“ Goodbye Mother, until we meet again in heaven. I pray that you will forgive me for all the times I got angry with you. I should have respected you more and shown you more love. I am so sorry for all the assisted livings I moved you to. You hated them and yet I kept moving you from one to another, looking for the one in an environment where you could find happiness. Your pain was sometimes unbearable, yet you continued to fight. You even outlived the date your doctor thought you would leave us. You were a strong willed woman who refused to give up and I respect you so much for that. Your three children were your world and I am so thankful you loved us so much. I am proud to call you my mommy. I will miss you for the rest of my life. Love, Your Daughter, Susie
