“ I'm sitting here and today was just one of those days I couldn't stop thinking about you. I miss you so much. My daughter keeps asking me about you, looking at your pictures and saying how pretty you are. You would love her, she has that stubbornness you and I share. I thought that writing you would help and make me smile but like always I'm just crying. I love you so much.

“ There are so much I want to say... How much I miss you, how much things have changed. There isn't a day that goes by that I don't think about you but... I really just starting to think about how much I need you. I'm having a little baby in the next couple days. The 9 months that I could have spent with you, asking you questions, leaning on you for the support I needed I couldn't get.. Lee has been such a big help. You would be so so proud of us. I wish I could have went through this with you like we always talked about. I love you so so much mom.. I miss you more than anyone could even understand.

“ I'm sorry to read of the loss of Shari. My thoughts and prayers go out to your whole family. Psalms 147:3 says God, "is healing the broken hearted ones, and is binding up their painful spots." May God bring you comfort and peace.

“ Vern, Jon and Jessi,

Heaven gained another angel. One that will always watch over you. The day I heard of Shari's passing, I gathered with her parents, three brothers and niece Kristen. We spent time talking about the good and trading photos we dug out of the basement at Nanny and Pa's house. Memories of holidays spent and occasions had together. Christopher told the story of the outfit his big sister made him to wear on his first day of kindergarten. He also showed off the pictures from the surprise birthday party Shari threw for his 18th birthday. Shari had a special place in her heart for my husband Chris and our two children Hannah (whom she called Hannah Banana) and Justin (his nickname was Justy). Her passing hit Chris and Hannah particularly hard. Hannah was so upset that she did not get to say goodbye to her aunt when she moved to Florida. She could not believe she would never see her again. I know Shari is at peace now. A feather showed up that day we sat at her parents home to reflect on her life. That feather meant Shari was in a better place free of pain and full of love. Rest in peace Shari and keep watch over your family.
