“ We were saddened to hear of Steve's recent passing and send our condolences to his sisters and family. Steve had a zest for life and sense of humor enjoyed at family gatherings. We were appreciative of his devotion during my sister and his wife Jill's illness. He also enjoyed helping vets achieve their goals. May happy memories help alleviate the sorrow we all feel and know that he and Jill are reunited forever. We's like to share more with his sisters via my email address: suegram05@comcast.net

“ I remember bringing one of my friends from college down to watch the Bay Hill Invitational tournament some 25 years ago. Steve's kind and hospitable affection are not to be forgotten. I also won't soon forget my friend asking Fuzzy Zoeller if he wanted a beer while we sat in Steve's backyard on the course. Fuzzy replied, I'll get mine at the 19th hole. Have nothing but find memories. Steve is now at peace and reunited with Jill.

“ Uncle Steve had an infectious thirst for knowledge and adventure which made him larger than life to my brother Andy and I growing up. While we did not see much of him as adults, the few occasions we did meet up, were impactful as can be seen in the photos shared on the tribute wall. Ever the gentleman, he tempered the many lively discussions had on the Ashton side over politics, science and religion.

Rest in peace Uncle Steve.

With fond remembrance, Christie

“ Steve was our brother-in-law and we have never met a more affable person. He was a great communicator through the many books in wrote about golf, his marketing endeavors, and friendships with famous golfers like Arnold Palmer and Phil Michelson. He will be missed by all who knew him.
